Reason! This is music to my ears

The evening's musical magic came from area talent with national and international training and performance experience.

Amy Sardone grew up in Flower Mound, Texas. She received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Music from Dallas Baptist University in 2006. Amy's musical talent won her the role as Bet (Oliver!), as well as positions in concert choirs in both Chattanooga, TN and Dallas, TX. She currently resides in Austin, Texas, where she teaches voice and piano in her own music studio

Jonny Norman grew up in Baltimore, Maryland. He received his undergraduate degree in electrical engineering and is currently attending Dallas Theological Seminary. Jonny's love of musical theater has earned him roles in 25 musicals, his favorite roles include the Beast (Beauty and the Beast), Joseph (Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat) and Jesus (Godspell)

Ben Quine, who grew up in Richardson, Texas, received his undergraduate degree from Texas Christian University, then studied at the Liszt Academy of Music in Budapest, Hungary, as a Fulbright Scholar under György Nádor and István Lantos. He received his master's of music degree from the Peabody Conservatory of Music in 2004, and has performed across the United States and Europe since, including the privilege of playing for Laura Bush, First Lady of the United States, and Megyessy Péter, Prime Minister of Hungary, at the European Fulbright Gala in Berlin, Germany
